AT TOMBSTONE.

Coconino County's Intrepid Knight

Enters the Stronghold of the Enemy.

He Exposes the Fallacies of His Hearers' Townsman.

As Everywhere Else a Favorable Impression and Numerous Votes are Made.

TOMBSTONE, Ariz., Oct. 14.—[Special.] Hon. W. G. Stewart opened the congressional campaign in this city tonight to one of the largest audiences ever gathered on any political occasion in the city.

He spoke for full two hours, holding his audience spell-bound.

Mr. Stewart's talk on tariff was a masterly effort. He arraigned the Democratic congress for raising such a hue and cry against the McKinley bill, and yet with a tremendous majority they failed to even attempt a repeal of the McKinley bill. They dared not do so, because they knew business sentiment would bury them beneath an avalanche of indignation, yet they succeeded in crippling the wool industry—a piece of legislation the sheep men of Arizona would not forget.

The speaker made an elaborate talk on the silver question and was frequently interrupted by shouts of approval. He cited the inconsistency of the last Democratic congress in failing to pass the silver bill already passed by a Republican senate, and scored Smith unmercifully for his apology, for party delinquency on the grounds that they did not pass the bill because they feared Harrison would veto the bill and make himself solid with New York.

Mr. Stewart paid his respects to local issues and commented on the various planks in the Republican territorial platform. His speech throughout was listened to with the greatest attention and respect. The frequent humorous remarks of the speaker brought down the house.

It is safe to say that Mr. Stewart's speech tonight in Mark Smith's home will cost the latter many votes. Coconino county can be depended upon to give a Republican majority this year.

BIKE RACES.

The Event of the Fair Yesterday at San Bernardino.

SAN BERNARDINO, Calif., Oct. 14.—[Associated Press.] Today was wheelmen's day at the fair. The tournament was attended by 3,000 people, the largest crowd yet in attendance. Ladies were there en masse, enjoying the excitement. The track was heavy. First race was a novice race, one mile, won by W. A. Burke, Los Angeles, 2:57 1/2.

The one mile open safety race 2:40 class was won by L. W. Fox of Colton, time 3:02 3/4.

The one mile 3:10 class was won by H. B. Cromwell of Los Angeles, time 2:45. The most exciting event of the afternoon was a five mile championship race. At the start there were seven entries but the race after the third mile was confined to two contestants, D. L. Burke of Los Angeles the one mile class champion and H. B. Cromwell of the same city. On entering the fourth mile Cromwell lead handsomely widening the gap between him and Burke gradually and so maintained his course until within one hundred yards of the finish when his foot slipped from the pedal, Burke won by a half length. Time, 16:31.

THE OPENING CEREMONIES.

LEXINGTON, Ky., Oct. 14.—The closing day, Johnson stake for 2:30 class was continued from Thursday; Geneva, Dan Cupid, Duergo, Bannermark. Best time, 2:16 1/4.

Special stake for 3-year-olds and under, Alax, three straight heats, Florida, Constantine, Belle, Archer. Best time, 2:11 1/2.

Kentucky stake for 3-year-olds, mile heats, two in three; Direct Turn, Belle Flower, Cear, Sabine. Best time for Direct Turn, 2:12 1/2, which ties the world's place for 3-year-olds.

The 2:27 trot is unfinished. Lee Russell took two heats, Andy Cutler and Sternberg each one. Best, 2:21 1/4.

held, at which the attendance was 10,000. All along Michigan avenue windows are being offered for rent for the day of the parade at astounding prices.

With a few exceptions, hotel keepers are not taking advantage of the demand for accommodations to raise the rates. However, to the disgust of the reception committee, one of the largest hotels has taken advantage of the situation and is charging exorbitant prices for accommodations with four beds in a room.

JEALOUS GIRL WIVES FIGHT.

Sensational Afterpiece in a Louisville Theater.

LOUISVILLE, Ky., Oct. 14.—[Associated Press.] A sensational scene was presented in the lobby of the Harris Theater this afternoon just as the performance was over and the audience was making its way into the street. Mrs. Arthur Krack, aged 18, spring her husband in company with Mrs. Josie McPherson, aged 19, began a war of words with her rival in her husband's affections which ended in a fist encounter and later in the arrest of both women. The husbands of the two girls work side by side and live near together. This afternoon Mrs. Krack attended the matinee, leaving her husband, as she supposed, at work. As she was leaving the theater after the performance she saw her husband and Mrs. McPherson and quickly made for them. Krack escaped, but Mrs. McPherson was not so fortunate. After a tirade of abuse for stealing her husband from her, Mrs. Krack began beating and scratching her rival, and only desisted when a policeman arrived and took both off to jail.

A MAN OF DESTINY.

Mickey Stewart's Popularity in Pima County.

They are Tired of Mark Smith's Wonderful Promises—Water Works for Tucson.

TUCSON, Ariz., Oct. 14.—[Special.] Mickey Stewart has left many friends in Tucson and his speech printed in full today will give him a big following wherever read and wherever he may speak. That Stewart will poll a heavy vote in November is conceded by those originally opposed to him and who have changed in his favor since seeing and hearing him. That Arizona wants action and not a profuse lot of promises, a veritable vermin of words, as she has been getting for the past few years, is also acknowledged, and to that end the sentiment is for a radical change of the present status of affairs. The feeling against the present incumbent's inability to accomplish anything for the territory is constantly dwelt upon and the universal opinion is in condemnation of this truckling man-worship in favor of a man who has proved a dismal failure in the advancing of Arizona's interest in any manner, shape or form.

The streets of the city are now daily sprinkled by water purchased from the railroad company. Mr. Cole of Phoenix is expected here soon to appear before the city council and in jointure with Mr. Watts, present owner of the existing water works in this city, formulate some acceptable plan by which the city of Tucson will secure a never failing supply of water.

The famous Mexican band from the City of Mexico that was at the late San Diego bay celebration played to a large audience at the opera house last night.

GLOBE TOPICS.

Several Cases of Sickness Reported—Movements of Politicians.

GLOBE, Ariz., Oct. 14.—[Special.] Mrs. Trevarthen, who has been quite sick for several weeks, was suddenly taken worse and for a while tears were entertained for her recovery. She is improving, however, and out of danger. Geo. and Maud Shanley, who have been dangerously sick for several days are regaining strength and will soon be around again.

Mr. and Mrs. Patrick Rose lost their youngest daughter, Cecelia, a few days ago on account of typhoid fever. Their son Willie, who is suffering from the same disease, has, it is believed, passed the crisis, and if he has sufficient strength to rally from his long siege will recover.

Judge and Mrs. E. J. Edwards and daughter, Jessie, are in Solomonville this week, where the Judge is in attendance upon the District Court of Graham county.

Ben. Williams, superintendent of the Copper Queen mine, came to Globe last week looking over his extensive copper claims in this district. While here he was the guest of Dr. Tripple.

Several of the candidates for county honors expect to leave in a few days for the northern part of the county to look after their political friends.

The Peoples party has put a full ticket in the field. Dudley Craig spent several days, town from Pinal ranch, and returned home on Monday. He reports everything quiet in his section.

Patrick Shanley has opened a butcher shop on Broadway, next to Dennis Murphy's place of business. It is suggested that our night watchman make himself acquainted with the gang of young hoodlums who run the streets every night and by their vile language and ill manners make it unpleasant for any one, especially ladies who are obliged to pass by. They should be given a place in the basement of the court house, where their ardor would have a chance to cool a little.

FIZZLE AT YUMA.

The Democratic Territorial Tin God

Disappoints His Party Friends.

He Descends to the Level of a Political Mendicant.

And Bids a Re-Election, Publicly Acknowledging He Has Done Nothing to Deserve It.

YUMA, Oct. 14, 1892.—[Special.] The unfertilized Democracy held forth tonight for the first time in public during the campaign. They have been doing a whole lot of "stall hunting," "rainbow chasing" and other such work as they can do on the sly, principally hunting and watching each other. "Buckley" Field, the new general of their force, has rattled the old fossils among them terribly, especially the kidded clique, which submitted to the force of his mastery dictation with an ill-willed grace that acquiesced only when compelled to do so. With a mode of tactics unknown to them, he brought them humbly to his feet, ready to do his bidding, and they did it. Canvases, primaries, convention and candidates all bowed to the wave of his hand or the nod of his rulings. True, they winced and quivered, but he made their kid-gloved and "jeweled hands" feel the pressure of the iron grasp of the "horridly-sawed" master of political ethics among the great unwashed. To pay him for his successful work, they were compelled to give him the second best place on the ticket, the first place being reserved for the ex-delegate to the National convention.

For two days they have been moving lots of earth trying to get out a crowd. Fortunate for them Grant Bros., the contractors, had just brought in a hundred, or so, laborers, who had not been put at work on account of a delay in getting in their outfit from Pantano. Between these laborers, the small boys and the people of Yuma, they gathered together a fair audience.

Hon. M. A. Smith was introduced. The first one-fourth of the time was occupied in telling what he had done, and the second one-fourth in telling what should be done, but not one word was said about how to do it. He made a malicious attack on Carnegie, and justified, by insinuations, the strike. He floundered on free silver. He was for it, but offered no explanation as to why, by the big Democratic majority of the house had failed to pass the bill after a Republican senate had done so. He was for statehood, and was justified with the present constitution for the state. He begged to be re-elected, because he had done so much for Arizona and understood the ropes so well. There was a grand spread-eagle closing, and his voice faded.

After waiting out into deep water and as if afraid to try to swim, he appealed to his hearers in a most pathetic strain to come to his rescue and save him from being snowed under by the Hon. W. G. Stewart, the "little giant of the north." His appeal in this regard was the most striking part of his evening's work. Socially, Mr. Smith is a success and perhaps here was where he based his calculations in his efforts in Yuma, but he did not add one vote to his little clan of forlorn followers in the southwest.

Cox followed begging for Smith to be re-elected because the congress would hence he should be elected eternally. He monkeyed with the tariff, and growled at Republican appointments under Governors Irwin and Murphy. Both speeches were the weakest ever heard here. The audience was well behaved but there was no enthusiasm or blistered hands in an effort to warm up the crowd. The meeting was not successful in gaining votes.

The crowd was disappointed in the work of the speeches. Spiritual electioneering now closes the effort and Yuma county is safe for Stewart.

EXPLANATORY.

Two Gentlemen Named A. E. Martin.

Wish to Announce that They are Not now, Never Were and Never Will be Democrats.

Mr. A. E. Martin of Yuma county and Chairman of the Board of Prison Commissioners is in the city. Mr. Martin wishes to state that he is not the A. E. Martin who took part in the deliberations of the Peoples Party convention on Thursday night and who declared that previous to joining the party he had been a life long Democrat.

Mr. Martin of Yuma is now, has always been and always will be the staunchest of staunch Republicans.

Dr. A. E. Martin also called at THE REPUBLICAN last night to correct a possible impression that he might have been the Mr. Martin who had so publicly avowed his former faith.

Had THE REPUBLICAN been fully aware of the general public detestation of a Democratic record it would have been more explicit and would have distinguished the gentleman who resented the attempt of the county Democracy to absorb the Peoples Party organization night before last, from other gentlemen of the same name.

THE REPUBLICAN does not think Mr. Martin's conduct was at all reprehensible. He made a brave and honorable confession of his early connection with the Democratic party. He had, however, plucked himself like a brand from the burning and the smell of the fire no longer lingered about his garments. He now stood on higher ground and looked down on the level which he had thoroughly cut loose from the Democratic party. It was unnecessary that he should express gratification at his deliverance. That was taken for granted and his acknowledgment was consequently frank, graceful and natural.

There are instances on record of men who have run the gamut of sin and even crime, yet when they have shown evidence of reform they have been received by society with open arms and their past records have become closed books and nothing was afterward treasured against them. The same consideration should be extended to Mr. Martin. He has thoroughly cut loose from the Democratic party, has been absolved of his early political sins, so that there is nothing now of which he or any one else should be ashamed.

A Destructive California Fire.

KINGSBORO, Calif., Oct. 14.—This town this morning suffered from a most disastrous conflagration. The loss is estimated at $50,000, but will probably be found to be somewhat less. There is but little insurance. Most of the business buildings in town, two residences and W. B. Davis & Company's general merchandise store are destroyed. The building and stock was valued at $25,000. The adjoining buildings that were destroyed were occupied by a tin shop, three saloons, a drug store, the hall of K. of P., attorneys' offices and two dwellings.

TWO GOOD PIMAS.

The Annual Teshuin Fatal Festival.

The Tribal Jag is Attended by Murder.

Chonah's Heart is Punctured by De-Ne-A-Doc.

Who is Slain Yesterday by Chonah's Surviving Friends and All is Consequently Peaceful.

The annual murder has occurred at the Pima reservation on Salt river a few miles above Tempe. It took place late night before last or early yesterday morning, and the word was brought to the city yesterday by an Indian boy, son of Cuno, an inmate of the county jail. The boy was relating the incident to his father and was overheard by Henry Morgan, who questioned him about it and obtained the particulars of the killing.

The name of the Indian murdered was Chonah and his slayer is a well known member of the tribe named De-Ne-A-Doc. The Indians were celebrating the teshuin feast and the entire tribe was on a howling drunk. A tumultuous quarrel arose in the course of which Chonah received a stab wound in his breast, through which his soul escaped and winged its way to the happy hunting grounds where it is one bright feast of teshuin always and sober moments never come. De-Ne-A-Doc's soul also took flight, but his body went on and nobody knows where they are.

The Indian boy didn't come down to make complaint or to invite the interference of the authorities. He simply came to see his father and relate the incident only as a bit of neighborhood news in which the old man might take an interest.

A warrant was issued for the murderer's arrest, and Mr. Morgan and Marshal DeNure set out for the reservation. They do not believe that De-Ne-A-Doc will stay away long, perhaps not longer than a day or two, but will return out of curiosity to know how public sentiment is drifting.

Though the Indians are not insensible to a sentiment of repugnance to an ordinary murder, they are always anxious to make a stir about such an episode as this occurring at a teshuin feast. In fact the feast itself is kept as secret as possible from the whites, on account of the liability of just such affairs as this to occur. Nearly every feast is likely to be attended by murder.

On the occasion of the last feast Henry Morgan noticed the conspicuous and suspicious absence of the Indians from the city for two or three days, and concluded the bacchanalian feast was in progress. A day or two later he met a Pima from the Salt river reservation and asked him if the teshuin had been brewed. The Indian replied that the festival was a thing of the past. "How many were killed?" inquired Mr. Morgan. The Indian replied that the drunkenness had been general, but was marked with peace and good order and that every member of the tribe had survived. There was something about the Indian's manner which excited Mr. Morgan's suspicion that there had been trouble. The next day he met another member of the tribe and began his inquiry in a different manner by asking, "Is that Indian that got shot at the last feast dead?"

"No, but he can't live long," replied the Indian.

Mr. Morgan took a posse and went up to the reservation, where he found the murderer.

Later.

Marshal DeNure and Mr. Morgan returned late last night. They said when they got to the reservation they found nothing for them to do, or rather so much to be done that they became discouraged and abandoned the job. The Pimas had already disposed of the murderer. After killing Chonah, De-Ne-A-Doc, as having some domestic difference from the reservation, lay down and went to sleep. The friends of Chonah, as soon as they had partially recovered from the effect of the tribal debauch, started in pursuit of the murderer and overtook him in a drunken stupor.

De-Ne-A-Doc never recovered from the effect of overloading himself with the seductive teshuin and he was buried according to the custom of the Pimas. In other words he was lynched with thoroughness and dispatch.

So many Indians have been engaged in the affair that the officers found that it would be an interminable job to get at the bottom facts in the case and they gave it up. They thought perhaps that things were better as they now stood. The teshuin festival had resulted in the making of at least two good Indians and all the Pimas were satisfied except De-Ne-A-Doc's friends and they had nothing to say.

A CITIZEN AFTER ALL.

But He Surmounted Discouragements of Flood and Fire.

The voting population of Phoenix is increasing rapidly and an account of a unanimous wish of foreign born citizens to be invested with all the rights and privileges of native born residents. Each day's work in the clerk's office is heavier than that of the day before. Yesterday there were six applicants for naturalization. Hans Jepson and Hans Petersen, natives of Denmark; Redmond Toohy, a native of Ireland; Jose Romero, Pedro Balistiro and Mariano Gonzales, of Mexico. James Renie, born in Scotland, made direct application to the district court and was made a citizen. Mr. Renie's case is a rather unusual one. He began taking out naturalization papers fourteen years ago in Louisiana. His first papers were lost on a voyage between New Orleans and the Mexican coast in a storm.

Another application was made and the papers in the case were burned in a court house in Texas. It appeared to Mr. Renie that the fates had ordained that he must die a subject of Great Britain, but his Scotch perseverance asserted itself and now his citizenship is proof against the exigencies of fire and flood.

BLAINE WILL TAKE PART.

The ex-Secretary Gives Assurance of His Loyalty.

WHITE PLAINS, N. Y., Oct. 14.—[Associated Press.] Prominent Republicans including Clarkson, Bliss, Manley, Carter and McComas, who were invited to meet Blaine at dinner at Ophir Farm, last night returned this morning. None of the gentlemen would divulge what took place at the conference last night except to say that Blaine assured them he was loyal to the party and would do everything in his power to secure the election of Harrison and Reid so far as he was physically able. It is still an open question whether the ex-secretary will make a public address during the campaign. It is thought, however, he will address a meeting in New York City before the end of the campaign.

SOMETHING RARE.

A Liberal Offer by the Red Corner.

A $400 Bed-Room Set and a $150 Folding Bed to Be Given Away.

M. Asher & Co., of "The Red Corner," are making a most liberal offer to their customers, and that is to give one of them an elegant $400 bed-room set, and to some other customer a most beautiful $150 folding bed. Both of these gifts will soon be on exhibition in the front show window of the B. Heyman Furniture company, and were specially manufactured for this purpose, being the handsomest ever brought to this country.

Every customer of this liberal and enterprising firm has an opportunity to secure one of these beautiful gifts and should call at the store without delay for full particulars. This liberal offer goes into effect today.

TO BE EXTENDED.

The Gardner Block May Have 200 Feet Frontage.

The contract for supplying brick for the Gardner block was yesterday awarded to Grunby & Co., and plans and specifications for bids for the iron and steel work have been sent to various eastern manufacturing firms. An important change is contemplated in the original plan of the building by which the block will have a frontage of 200 feet on Washington street, as was at first proposed.

This change, however, will not delay the completion of the original work, as it will be pushed vigorously. The other 125 feet of frontage will be of uniform appearance with that portion of the block opposite the Gregory house, and should call at the store without delay for full particulars. This liberal offer goes into effect today.

De-Ne-A-Doc never recovered from the effect of overloading himself with the seductive teshuin and he was buried according to the custom of the Pimas. In other words he was lynched with thoroughness and dispatch.

FOUL MURDER.

Spanish-American Boy of Los Angeles

Found Murdered in the Chinese Quarter.

A Suspicion Entertained of a Most Horrible Motive.

Intense Excitement Among the Spanish-Americans and Serious Trouble Imminent.

LOS ANGELES, Cal., Oct. 14.—[Associated Press.] Intense excitement prevails among the Spanish-American population over the atrocious murder of a boy named Fernando Quijoda, son of a well-known farmer and property owner of this county. The lad's body was discovered in a cess-pool in Chinatown last evening and today was identified. The coroner's inquest showed that death was caused by strangling. It is believed the boy was enticed by a Chinaman into an opium joint and there murdered because he would not consent to become a victim to an unnatural crime. The identity of the murderer is believed to be known and the police are making a diligent search for him.

The Spanish-Americans threaten to make trouble in Chinatown tonight unless the murderer is produced.

SAN FRANCISCO, Oct. 14.—At a meeting of the election commissioners today, Attorney Durst, replying to certain charges against him declared himself in favor of that portion of the Democratic party known as the Reorganized Democracy. On motion of O'Brien the application of the Democratic faction represented by James Long for power to heading on a municipal ticket was denied by commissioners. This gives the Democratic heading on the ticket to the reorganizers.
